

Theresa Belpulsi
Vice President of Tourism
Destination DC

Theresa Belpulsi is Vice President of Tourism for Destination DC. DDC is the capital city's primary marketing organization and is responsible for the economic health of a $9 billion hospitality industry employing 260,000 individuals in the region. Theresa oversees tourism marketing and sales for the domestic and international markets as well as visitor's services.

Prior to Destination DC, Belpulsi served as Assistant Director of Tourism of the Fort Lauderdale Convention & Visitors Bureau. She was responsible for all domestic leisure sales as well as special events to the city.

Currently, Theresa is Vice President of the Board to the Capital Region USA, Inc. (CRUSA). CRUSA is a regional tourism coalition comprised of the Virginia Tourism Corporation, Destination DC and the Maryland Office of Tourism Development. Additionally, she also sits on the board for a number of tourism organizations including National Cherry Blossom Festival and the International Gay and Lesbian Travel Association. She participates in various arts & cultural tourism activities within Washington, DC and the Region.

A graduate of Georgia Southern University, Theresa holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Communication Arts.